I Sing for You

Lord, I sing for you, joining the birds of the sky who sing the morning hiding in the leaves. Lord, I sing for you with the prairie wildflowers laughing in their rich riot of colours. With fields of crickets drawing their bows across a summer night, the creeks' grumblings and the ocean's roar. With the drone and hum of the song of the city, the throb of engines, and joyful shouts of children during recess. I join the wind in the woods, the breeze offshore, the bursting buds as the world wakes for spring. The music of our footsteps on the trail and our songs on the road, all our souls singing together—your creation's voice joined in prayer.
